Academic Common Market

Are you interested in a field of study that isn't offered by colleges and universities in West Virginia?

Can't afford to pay out-of-state tuition?

WEST VIRGINIA ACADEMIC COMMON MARKET

Through the Academic Common Market, a program coordinated by the Southern Regional Education Board, students in 15 Southern states can enroll in selected programs at public institutions in other states and pay in-state tuition. The programs currently available to WEST VIRGINIA residents through the Academic Common Market are listed below. Programs are added and deleted continually. The State coordinator listed on the front should be contacted to verify a program's availability. Information is also available at the SREB Web site, www.sreb.org.

For information on admission to any of these programs, contact the college or university directly. Once you are accepted into one of these programs and can provide the required documentation that proves you are a legal resident of WEST VIRGINIA, contact the WEST VIRGINIA Academic Common Market coordinator as listed on the front.

The Academic Common Market is not a distance learning program. Most programs require that students attend classes at the college or university.
